Fund Manager's Report

During the month, the fund declined by 65 basis points (bps), outperforming the benchmark by 25 bps mostly due to the fund's underweight position in Korea. YTD the fund declined 7.53%, slightly underperforming the benchmark by 8bps.

With bulk of monetary policy tightening being implemented in 2022, we are near the last leg of rate hike increases. However, near term volatility could arise with the market as implied by the Fed Funds Futures expecting a peak policy rate of 4.9% by June 2023, a half year mismatch/ optimism against the Fed's prediction. Post the congress meeting, China has surprised the market in which the speed it is reopening the economy and its intention to turnaround the property and internet sectors that were previously impacted from self-inflicted regulations. While we expect economic repair to be the focus for 2023, the key issues are (a) Will stimulative policies be sufficient to turnaround the sectors which had been hard hit and, (b) To what extent will corporates e.g., in internet be able to normalize their business activities. We favor reopening plays in China and beneficiaries of policy tailwinds. We remain fully invested. During the month, we added commodity names exposed to the China reopening and Korean hardware names where there is some form of expectations bottoming in 1H23.

For Malaysia Equities, given the recent positive market momentum as well as the prospects of reduced risk premium and upside in valuation, we are cautiously positive on Malaysia. We would continue to focus on companies with firm fundamentals, strong cash flows generation and defensive in nature. Key risks are derailment of Malaysia's macro recovery and corporate earnings growth due to a larger-than-expected impact of rising inflation, slower global economic growth as well as heightened geopolitical risks.

For fixed income, our overall strategy going into 2023 continues to overweight in the credit segment for a more stable and higher yield pick-up. While we continue to remain overweight in corporate segment, we are mindful of the potential slower growth for certain sectors in the economy and as such, prefer names with a stronger credit profile. On duration, we aim to gradually increase the portfolio duration.

[^]Based on the fund's portfolio returns as at 15 December 2022, the Volatility Factor (VF) for this fund is 8.67 and is classified as "Low" (source: FIMM). The VF means there is a possibility for the fund in generating an upside return or downside return around this VF. The Volatility Class (VC) is assigned by FIMM based on quintile ranks of VF for qualified funds. VF is subject to monthly revision and VC will be revised every six months. The fund's portfolio may have changed since this date and there is no guarantee that the fund will continue to have the same VF or VC in the future. Presently, only funds launched in the market for at least 36 months will display the VF and its VC.
